

VOLAC WORLD LEADERS IN DAIRY NUTRITION, AWARD NF MEMBRANE SYSTEM CONTRACT TO AXIUM PROCESS

Volac, a world leader in dairy nutrition, recently awarded Axiom Process its Contract to build a new Nanofiltration membrane system for its expanding Felinfach, Lampeter whey protein process operations. The Nanofiltration system contract follows the successful integration of a Microfiltration membrane system which was recently manufactured, installed and commissioned by Axiom Process.

The system was built to Volac's unique and proprietary design requirements and forms an integral part of the company's whey protein separation processes. Volac chose Axiom Process as a supplier of their membrane filtration systems due to the company's specialist skills in design and build of process systems, its high level of engineering and product management support and the provision of a full technical documentation package which would include material certification, pressure tests and CE certification as required.
